Russia puts Iranian satellite into orbit August 9, 2022 World's wildlife more at risk than realised, study says August 4, 2022 Thanks to New Neo for a reminder about this classic The Children's Hour Between the dark and the daylight, When the night is beginning to lower, Comes a pause in the day's occupations, That is known as the Children's Hour. I hear in the chamber above me The patter of little feet, The sound of a door that is opened, And voices soft and sweet. From my study I see in the lamplight, Descending the broad hall stair, Grave Alice, and laughing Allegra, And Edith with golden hair. A whisper, and then a silence: Yet I know by their merry eyes They are plotting and planning together To take me by surprise. A sudden rush from the stairway, A sudden raid from the hall! By three doors left unguarded They enter my castle wall! They climb up into my turret O'er the arms and back of my chair; If I try to escape, they surround me; They seem to be everywhere. They almost devour me with kisses, Their arms about me entwine, Till I think of the Bishop of Bingen In his Mouse-Tower on the Rhine! Do you think, O blue-eyed banditti, Because you have scaled the wall, Such an old mustache as I am is not a match for you all! I have you fast in my fortress, And will not let you depart, But put you down into the dungeon In the round-tower of my heart. And there will I keep you forever, Yes, forever and a day, Till the walls shall crumble to ruin, And moulder in dust away! We're sorry, but WorldCat does not work without JavaScript enabled. The Native Butcher which focuses on sourcing and farming the best available possible. The Supper Club, which welcomes guests to discover a delicious seasonal menu from the farm; and 'The River Severn Fairy Trail', an educational trail for visitors of all ages. Punchline editor Mark Owen joined other media visitors at Lime Kiln Farm, Hasfield - located between Gloucester and Ledbury - to sample some of its delights. Mark chatted to Richard Barter and Tara Vaughan, who created The Native Butcher. Richard said: "It's a family farm. We've been here since 1999 and prior to that we were just up the road since the early 1980s. We keep purely native British breeds. We've got Gloucester cows, Cotswold sheep and Gloucester Old Spot and Tamworth pigs. "We are purely grass-fed. We've grown it, we've butchered it and we've cooked it and we're eating it here. The Supper Club opens every Friday evening throughout the summer when guests will enjoy a delicious three-course set menu and accompanying wine list. Richard added: "We can have a maximum of 30 or 40 sitting down. It's generally what we've got in the butchery. We try to get a banquet feel, a lot of people getting together and just chatting and mingling, sitting by the fire pit and having a giggle. "When Richard and Tara created The Naked Butcher, after many conversations about farming, food and health, a common theme became apparent - respect. Respect for livestock they rear, respect for the environment we all share and respect for ourselves. It is the brand's mission for all generations to be educated about farming, food, and where it comes from, and to consume the very best quality of food possible. Working with the belief that rearing the traditional breeds in a traditional manner produces the best quality meat possible in a sustainable, affordable, environmentally friendly, and above all respectful way. The Native Butcher ensures the mindset that nature is never wrong and farming traditionally produces healthier food from happier animals within a sound ecological system, is paramount and at the heart of everything they do. Consciously keeping their business small to ensure they are in control of everything that leaves the farm, the brand prides itself on its reputation that is presented in every piece of food their customers consume. Working to a zero-waste policy, they compost, reuse, and recycle at every opportunity. Richard and Tara were able to commit to their zero-waste policy further by opening their own kitchen, providing them with the ability to turn any by-product into a healthy meal. Working hard to be a sustainable farm, butchers, and kitchen, the brand's aim is to have minimal impact on the environment, only keeping traditional breeds and farming to increase biodiversity, regenerate the land and keep the balance between farming and nature. The Native Butcher provides a selection of 100 per cent grass-fed meat boxes, cuts of meat, a restaurant on site at their farm and various activities for people of all ages to enjoy. The Supper Club is hosted in the beautiful meadows on the farm and the special setting provides the perfect venue for private parties and group bookings. All meals include the farm's own cuts of meat from their butchery, with locally sourced seasonal vegetables. Alongside their other initiatives, through their passionate desire to educate children about where their food comes from, Richard and Tara launched 'The River Severn Fairy Trail'. Creating an educational and family-friendly destination suitable for all generations, The River Severn Fairy Trail allows visitors to explore the farm and to feed a range of animals, including sheep, pigs, cattle, ponies, donkeys, ducks and many more! The Fairy Trail is the perfect summer holiday activity, opening from mid-July to early September. The farm also offers weekend camping holidays with access to the fairy trail, birthday party packages, school trips, food, and drink on site from their very own farm. Mark Owen editor of Punchline-gloucester.com said: "A big thanks to Richard and Tara for an enjoyable evening. Delicious food, wonderful venue, and great company. You couldn't ask for a better night. "For more information on The Native Butcher, the Supper Club and The River Severn Fairy Trail, visit Image not available for Color: To view this video download Flash Player As the panda woke one morning from uneasy dreams, he found himself transformed into some kind of monstrous bird. Crouched in a warm hump of feathers, it curled its long neck and faced forward, focusing its big doe eyes onto an indistinguishable ray of light. Confusion soon shifted into an uncontrollable anger and a craving to call the manager. This is how I imagine Karen the emu was born. Her origin story, if you may. She currently resides on the Useless Farm and makes it a daily priority to cause havoc to her owner. We'll dive into their lives, as well as the lives of the other animals living on the farm, but before we do, dear reader, let me ask you this - what would you do if you woke up one day and found you'd become an emu? Your upvotes and follows are highly appreciated, so please keep them coming, and without further ado, let's get into it! More info: Useless Farm | TikTok The Useless Farm, lovingly named that by owner Amanda, has become a safe haven for rescued animals wanting to live out their lives in (relative) peace. Image credits: useless_farm Ah, farm life. Early mornings, cuddly friends and lots of feeding the residents. One such place is named the Useless Farm - all the animals there are just living out their lives peacefully, for no other reason or purpose. "I think of it sort of as a retirement home for animals who people are done with," Amanda, the 38-year-old owner, told CTV News Toronto. "We aren't a sanctuary or a rescue or anything like that - this is just our life." It has a lovely variety of characters. Poor Sweet Michael, an alpaca "with literal elevator music playing in his brain 24/7 and a consistent hay hanging out the side of his mouth." Brad the silkie rooster, an "absolutely miserable piece of st that's aggressive as hell." And the star of today's article, Karen the Emu - an "absolute bh" that hates her owner Amanda "with every fiber of her being." However, one sassy emu, named Karen, is the opposite of sunshine and happiness, making it her life's purpose to never-endingly attack Amanda. Image credits: useless_farm Amanda has been documenting their lovely relationship on TikTok, and people can't get enough of the hilarious yet fear-inducing interactions, as the emu keeps charging or biting at its owner every chance it gets. The only thing that seems to stop the bird is Amanda's quick reflex of putting her arm out in time. Karen was rescued from a zoo and has been living at the Useless Farm in Ontario, Canada, for 5 years now. Despite the generosity and love that Amanda shows her on the daily, the bird just can't seem to chill. Karen regularly goes viral for charging full-speed at Amanda for what seems to be absolutely no reason. At the time of writing, the Useless Farm on TikTok currently has 4.8M followers, all curiously awaiting each new video. Karen was rescued from a zoo and has been living on the farm for 5 years. Amanda calls her an "absolute bh," as she keeps charging at her. Image credits: useless_farm Karen, our emu is absolutely miserable, and we named Karen before Karen was even a thing, so I don't know if I manifested that," Amanda told Global News. Ironically enough, the name Karen, which originated in Scandinavia, means 'pure.' Must be pure evil in this case. Now, we do not endorse discriminating against people just based on their name, however, the emu may have taken the description a little bit too seriously. There are multiple explanations of the name on Urban Dictionary, as it's become quite the meme in the past decade. So Karen - "the middle aged white mother, responsible for the existence of the 'live, laugh, love' sign industry. Because Karens have no purpose in life they strive to make the lives of others miserable. Especially the life of minimum-wage workers. Karen's main source of information is Facebook." "We named Karen before Karen was even a thing, so I don't know if I manifested that," Amanda said. The name has become a meme in the past decade. Image credits: useless_farm The only thing that seems to stop the bird is Amanda's quick reflex of putting her arm out, but even that isn't a 100% guarantee for safety. Image credits: useless_farm "She takes her job of stomping out my life very seriously," she told CTV News Toronto, adding that it's not uncommon for female emus to show aggression. According to the Emu Keepers and Breeders Community, emu temperament can vary from bird to bird. The females tend to be slightly more anxious, more so with each other, with the males being generally very docile. There have been times when Amanda wasn't quick enough to stop Karen's rage. "She's definitely getting worse, but this is her cardio," said Amanda in a recent video. "Who am I to stand in the way of Karen's self care," she joked. She also shared images showing herself with cuts and bruises over her face and arm - the handiwork of Karen. But despite the dangers, there is no way she would ever get rid of Karen. "Karen is my soul sister," adding that she isn't sure anyone else could handle the sass. A fellow emu, named Stanley, is the polar opposite of Karen. Whilst he's calm and snuggly, she "takes her job of stomping out [Amanda's] life very seriously." Image credits: useless_farm As emus cannot live alone - social animals, after all! - she is joined by a much nicer emu named Stanley. He is described on the official website as the "sweetest angel who's ever existed." He is also the king of interpretative dance and loves to snuggle and get his hair played with. Amanda never planned on owning a farm filled with animals. "We definitely did not set out to do this. This is just a weird turn of events, but here we are," she told Narcity. Image credits: useless_farm Amanda never planned on owning a farm filled with animals, let alone becoming famous on TikTok. They currently have 4.8M followers and multiple viral hits. Image credits: useless_farm Amanda grew up in the suburbs of Winnipeg with no farming experience, but ended up with a 44-acre farm which she runs on top of her full-time job in government services with the help of her family. She started the account just to share "the daily craziness" of running a hobby farm, but that soon took off to new heights. "There were so many funny, really obscure things that happened here and so I wanted to share that with people, I wanted people to laugh and smile at these things like I do," Amanda told Global News. "The reaction from people online has been so amazing. "She started the account just to share "the daily craziness" of running a hobby farm, but that soon took off to new heights, even capturing Michael Bubl 's attention. Image credits: useless_farm It even caught the attention of Canadian singer, Michael Bubl . Bubl  duetted on a few of Useless Farm's videos by pretending to be Michael the llama, just staring off into the distance whilst chewing on a tiny bit of hay or hiding behind a tree. "When I saw that Michael Bubl  dueted a couple of my videos, I laughed so hard. He's such a good sport about it," Amanda added. Amanda's incredibly grateful for all that she has, and we hope that their adventures continue for many more years to come! Image credits: Useless Farm What started as a way to connect with her family and friends through silly videos has turned into a viral sensation. But now Amanda's working hard to find a balance between her full-time job, maintaining the farm, caring for her two children, and providing content for millions of people to enjoy. "It's a lot of work, but you have to make everything you do fun, right? I'm so thankful for all that I have. "If you'd like to help support the Useless Farm, they have merch, as well as a mailing address and a PayPal account set up for donations. You can find all of the information here - Karen will never stop, nor rest! @useless_farm Replying to @tonia j # original sound - Useless Farm Let us know your thoughts on the farm in the comments below. Have you come across Amanda and Karen before? Also, don't forget to answer the question posed at the very beginning of the article! Can't wait to read your answers, and I bid you adieu! People love the duo, albeit are a bit scared of Karen themselves. Let us know your thoughts in the comments!
